of 36,402,972 pounds for 1916.

The gold production for 1917 was 1,655 ounces: for 1916, 2,570 ounces. Silver production on the other hand, increased from 128,568 to 332,-536 ounces.

Gross revenue rose from $9,949,-918 to $14,583,648.70; net income from $7,400,000 to $8,256,177.17. Dividends paid in 1917 amounted to $1,680,000. thus leaving a balance of $6,576,117 to be added to surplus account.

In 1916 the Extension shipped 77, per cent copper.

All these 1917 figures are included in the annual report to the stockholders, mailed out of the New York office a few days ago. The only copy so far received in Jerome is at the local office.

President's Statement In his statement to stockholders, President James S. Douglas said in "Work on the smelter has not advanced as rapidly as we expected yet, when we take into consideration the abnormal conditions * that have prevailed we feel that satisfactory progress has been made. All consignments of material to us have been subject to preferences given to war material."

Regarding the mine valuation the following remarks of President Douglas are of particular interest to stockholders:

"The amendment of the U.S. income tax law of September 8, 1910 permitted mining companies to deduct from gross income, a reasonable allowance for depletion thereof not
